THE WEEK'S PROGRAMME.

The Belasco-The Ben Greet Players in "The Little Minister."
The New National-The Aborn English Grand Opera Company in "Carmen" and "Faust."
The Columbia-The Columbia Players in "The Road to Yesterday."
The Academy-Vaudeville.
The Casino-Continuous Vaudeville.
The Gayety-Burlesque.

It is difficult for the uninitiated to realize the amount of work entailed in the production of a play. Usually the accomplishment of a resident stock company of one play a week is regarded as a feat which is sufficient to occupy the time and attention of a fairly capable stage manager and company of actors. In some localities stock companies give two performances daily, leaving only the morning hours for rehearsal, but this is fearfully trying on the actors and not productive of the best artistic results.

The Greet players have one advantage which must not be overlooked, and that is that they have an extensive repertoire of plays which they have done before with practically the same casts. With "The Merry Wives of Windsor," for instance, it was a case of brushing up in the parts, rather than learning them for the first time. But credit is none the less due Mr. Greet and his company for their efforts to give Washington a spring engagement that is attractive in every particular. In Miss Violet Vivian we have an actress who is still young enough to be enthusiastic and she puts her best work into everything she does. Her Juliet aroused much favorable comment, and there is no doubt that her "Habbie" will be equally as interesting. Her sister, Miss Ruth, is a talented actress, her parts ranging from character work to leads. Mr. Greet himself is probably the best actor and producer that has ever played a stock company engagement in Washington. His reputation as an actor-manager is of the highest.

The Shakespearean matinees on Friday are not the least interesting feature of this notable engagement. Large numbers of students and young people attend these productions, which while not given on the sumptuous scenic scale, say, of the New Theater, are at least presented with an eye to the unities, and are of immeasurable good to the young people of all classes a love for the works of Shakespeare, who is the standard dramatist for all times.

His classic production, his modern comedies, and his occasional special performances of various kinds, keep Ben Greet a pretty busy man. This insures good work, for there is an old saying to the effect that if you want something done you must go to a busy man, for he will know how and when to do it, and can be relied upon. Mr. Greet is an illustration of this adage.

Mr. Greet was out of the cast of "The Little Minister." He has worked so hard acting and producing plays for the past three weeks, following his long season at the Garden Theater, New York, during which time he worked incessantly over nearly twenty different productions, that he feels entitled to a short rest from the labor of acting at least. Naturally, he will be the guiding hand of the production and the one to follow.

A week of Shakespeare will be announced by Mr. Greet, when every one will have an opportunity to see the company in its splendid presentation of "The Tempest," which delighted Friday afternoon's audience.

The theatrical seasons roll around so fast that it seems as if one hardly comes to an end before the next has begun to rise on the horizon. It is only the producing managers, however, who are busy now. The actors are resting for the most part. Those who make money are spending it in Europe, that Mecca of the Theatrical-dividing their time between witnessing important foreign productions and recuperating for the coming campaign. Every Atlantic liner sailing from New York carries its quota of players, folk nowadays, and as they have worked during the winter to give enjoyment to the public, we cannot grudge them this brief breathing spell and chance for frolicking on their own account.

Some actors accept stock engagements for the summer, if that sort of work is to their liking. There are others who are obliged to extend their time, either to unprofitable season or because of the demand for their services. In the latter case are Sothern and Marlowe, who are still touring the West with their Shakespearean productions. The New National Company too is playing in Chicago, and may visit one or two other cities whose residents are clamoring for a view of the most distinguished company of players in America.

As for the New Theater, in spite of the apparently well-organized opposition against its institution in its first quarters, the season was a profitable one. This is a handsome tribute to the discerning American playgoers and quite a feather in the cap of the management, who were under the necessity of disadvantages, principal of which was the lack of precedent, which made the enterprise largely an experiment. Although the object of the New Theater is not commercial, it has been able to keep its balance on the right side of the ledger, and at the same time, by pursuing a dignified and well-defined course, has lived down the exasperating and playfulness "knocks" of jealous people, who because they were not invited to take part in the movement, inspired vindictive comment and uniformly adverse criticism wherever they were able to buy space for the purpose.

The New Theater stands forth as a glorious monument to the drama in the United States and has marked an epoch in theatrical history. It will make the season of 1909-1910 historic.

Just now the selection of young Mr. Fyles as literary director is exciting a good deal of ribald jesting in New York, but it is never safe to predict that a man will fail in a given project until he has had the opportunity to succeed. The guiding spirits of the New Theater probably know what they are about, and what they are paid for. If Mr. Fyles proves inadequate to his position, he can easily be replaced; but there is no reason why he should not be given a trial as the successor to John Corbin. It is an excellent chance for a young man to show the best that is in him.

PLAYERS WHO WILL BE SEEN AT LOCAL THEATERS THIS WEEK.

DALLAS ANDERSON, WITH BEN GREET PLAYERS AT BELASCO.

CLARA HENDRIX, WITH THE COLLEGE GIRLS AT GAYETY.

PAUL BLEYDEN, WITH ABORN OPERA CO. AT NATIONAL.

GASTON BELL, WITH COLUMBIA PLAYERS AT COLUMBIA.

nee of "Carmen" to-morrow, the evening at that famous playhouse having been engaged by the National University Law School for its commencement.

The course of the Columbia Players continues even and attended by success. Patrons liked "The College Widow," and found much entertainment in observing the particular favorites doing comedy work. At the Academy the "Balloon Girl" attracted her share of the attention, and the Casino had Ratan's song-birds, the little rascal that has made such a big hit in Washington on previous visits.

THIS WEEK'S PLAYBILLS

National—"Carmen" and "Faust."
The second week of the Aborn English Grand Opera Company's engagement at the National Theater will be equally divided between two more welcome selections from the popular classics—Bilge's last and greatest work, "Carmen," for Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, and Gounod's most admired composition, "Faust," for Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

The usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees will be given, as well as a special matinee on Monday at 2 and 50 cents, and there will be no performance on Tuesday night, as that night was engaged for a locally arranged programme before the Aborn contract was made.

Bilge's dramatic "Carmen," with its highly dramatic, romantic and picturesque story, and its piquant, varied, and brilliant score, has figured more often in the grand opera repertoires of the world during the last ten years than any other opera. Its central character, Carmen, the wayward, fiery, fascinating, many-sided gypsy cigarette girl, offers remarkable opportunities for a prima donna of histrionic as well as musical talents, and is said to be the most enjoyable role in which Fritz von Busing has yet been seen. She will appear in this part at all four performances with the excellent support of the rest of the cast, which includes Eugene Battain, Paul Bleyden in turn in the tenor role of Don Jose, Jane Abercrombie, Paula Brande, and Alice Eversman, all three of whom have been heard as Michaela at different performances. K. Murray, baritone, as Escamillo; William Schuster, basso-cantante, as Zuniga; John Dunsmore, basso, as Dancaïro; Sol. Solomon as Remondino; May Billings as Frasquita; Mildred Rogers as Mercedes; Frederick Chapman as Morales, and others, with Carlo Nicotia as conductor.

The same cast will be heard in similarly appropriate roles during the latter half of the week in Gounod's "Faust."

The Belasco—"The Little Minister."
In presenting "The Little Minister" at the Belasco Theater this week the Ben Greet Players will appear in a play with little that is new or unfamiliar, the London portion of the company having played it in England, where at one time Mr. Greet had three companies presenting Barrie's charming comedy.

The story of the play is too well known to require detailed description, but a brief mention of some of the characters so quaintly drawn by Barrie may refresh memories of past pleasures of the book and play admirers of "The Little Minister." First comes Lady Babbie, the vivacious, mischievous, and daring daughter of the Scotch laird, Lord Kirkcubright. Then who can forget the kirk elders, Sneaky Hobart, Andrew Maclecker, Silva Toah, and their chief, Thomas Whammond, and lovable Rob Webster, Felice, the French maid, and lastly the little minister, Gavin Dismart, the young but austere leader of the Thurns flock, who in falling in love with the gypsy maid, forgets his duties. With such material Barrie has woven a story full of action, surprises, whimsical humor, pathos closely akin to laughter, and laughter which leaves a little ache in the heart, and with it all a clear, vivid, some story of a phase of Scotch life as Barrie knew it at first hand.
